Library for Online Programmes – Web Site Redesign April 2015

The Library for Online Programmes site has been redesigned; you can still access the Library at the same URL: http://libguides.liv.ac.uk/onlineprogrammes

You can also access the site from the same locations/links such as the main University of Library Web site (see http://liv.ac.uk/library > LibGuides > Online Programmes) or for Laureate-based students, links from sites such as the Centre for Student Success or links from your online learning environment (e.g. Blackboard).

The redesigned Library Web site now provides previous support and subject support from the top navigation bar such as E-Resources, Brief Guide, Referencing, Contacts and Guides.

You can access all major ‘Discovery’ tools such as DISCOVER, ‘Key Databases’ (Web of Science, Westlaw and others) and Google Scholar from the homepage:
The Library Training Module is still accessible from the ‘Training’ tab. A range of subject discipline pages are also provided, e.g. Veterinary Science, Law, Records Management, Education:

These pages provide a range of guidelines, video, search options and links to suggested database and academic related Web sites for your subject area:

The ‘E-Resources’ area still provides search tools for E-Resource types, such as E-Journals, Data and Reports, E-Books, Patents, International Standards/ISOs, Theses & Dissertations etc.:
You can access a wide range of guides, video and tutorials from locations such as:

- The ‘Guides’ tab, listing all guidelines available in PDF or Word format.
- The ‘Training’ tab, providing access to the Library Training Module.
- The Video/ Tutorials icon, shown in the left side menu.

The side menu continues to provide a range of additional sources of information and tools, including your University (not Laureate) email, access to the UoL research repository, Video and Tutorials, Software applications, Refworks citation management tools and guidance and other features:
All URLs found in the older version of the Library for Online Programmes will continue to work as usual, all ‘perma links’ (shown in the side menu on every page) will also continue to forward to the same pages.

If you have any problems using the redesigned Library Web pages please use the ‘Contacts’ tab which now also includes IT support options and information on how to contact your Librarian http://libguides.liv.ac.uk/onlineprogrammes/contacts
